

Our team of surgical experts provides patients with the highest level of surgical care.

Our hospital has been certified as a training facility for medical specialists in accordance with the regulations of the Medical Specialist Education System for Digestive Surgeons of the Japanese Society of Gastroenterological Surgery. We have also been recognized as a hospital that can perform advanced medical care, especially in the field of digestive cancer. As a result, the number of annual surgery cases has increased as steady and reached 1,262 cases in 2009.

The main target diseases are malignancies of the digestive system, including cancer of the esophagus, stomach, colon and rectum, benign and malignant diseases of the liver, biliary tract, pancreas, mammary gland and thyroid gland. In 2009, we performed 332 cancer surgeries including 27 cases of esophageal cancer, 81 of stomach cancer, 111 of colon cancer, 31 of liver cancer, 24 of pancreatic / biliary tract cancer, 55 of breast cancer, 7 of thyroid cancer and other types of cancers.

The increase in the number of surgery cases is a result of the synergistic effects of the cooperation between the members of the Department of Gastroenterology and Surgery to choose indications based on guidelines. Furthermore, we have established a CPC (clinicopathological conference), and an intra-operative quick pathological diagnosis system, benefiting not only the surgeons but the patients as well.
